Koller is my father.

Thorson is my mother.

Thorson clan '37

Grandma Thorson as a child with her family (page 4)

I was told I have the names correct.

My Mom, the family resemblance to Pam (my sister) at the same age is remarkable (page 5)

Aunt Marlys sitting on Grandma's lap with Grandpa behind (page 4)

JACKSON KOLLER

All of us in '58

Dad with us three kids: Pam, Brad and I.

JACKSON KOLLER

Dad with my two kids: Sheri and Sean.

Sean's middle name
is my first name, family
tradition, he is the fifth generation to carry the father's first name as
his middle name.

JACKSON KOLLER

JACKSON KOLLER

Yep, that's Dad.

JACKSON KOLLER

I must've been taking the picture.
Mom, Dad, Pam and Brad.

JACKSON KOLLER

Mom and Dad

With friends, looks like late 60's or early 70's.

JACKSON KOLLER

Mom with my kids.

JACKSON KOLLER

Mom and Pam

JACKSON KOLLER

I think this is Mom
as a baby.

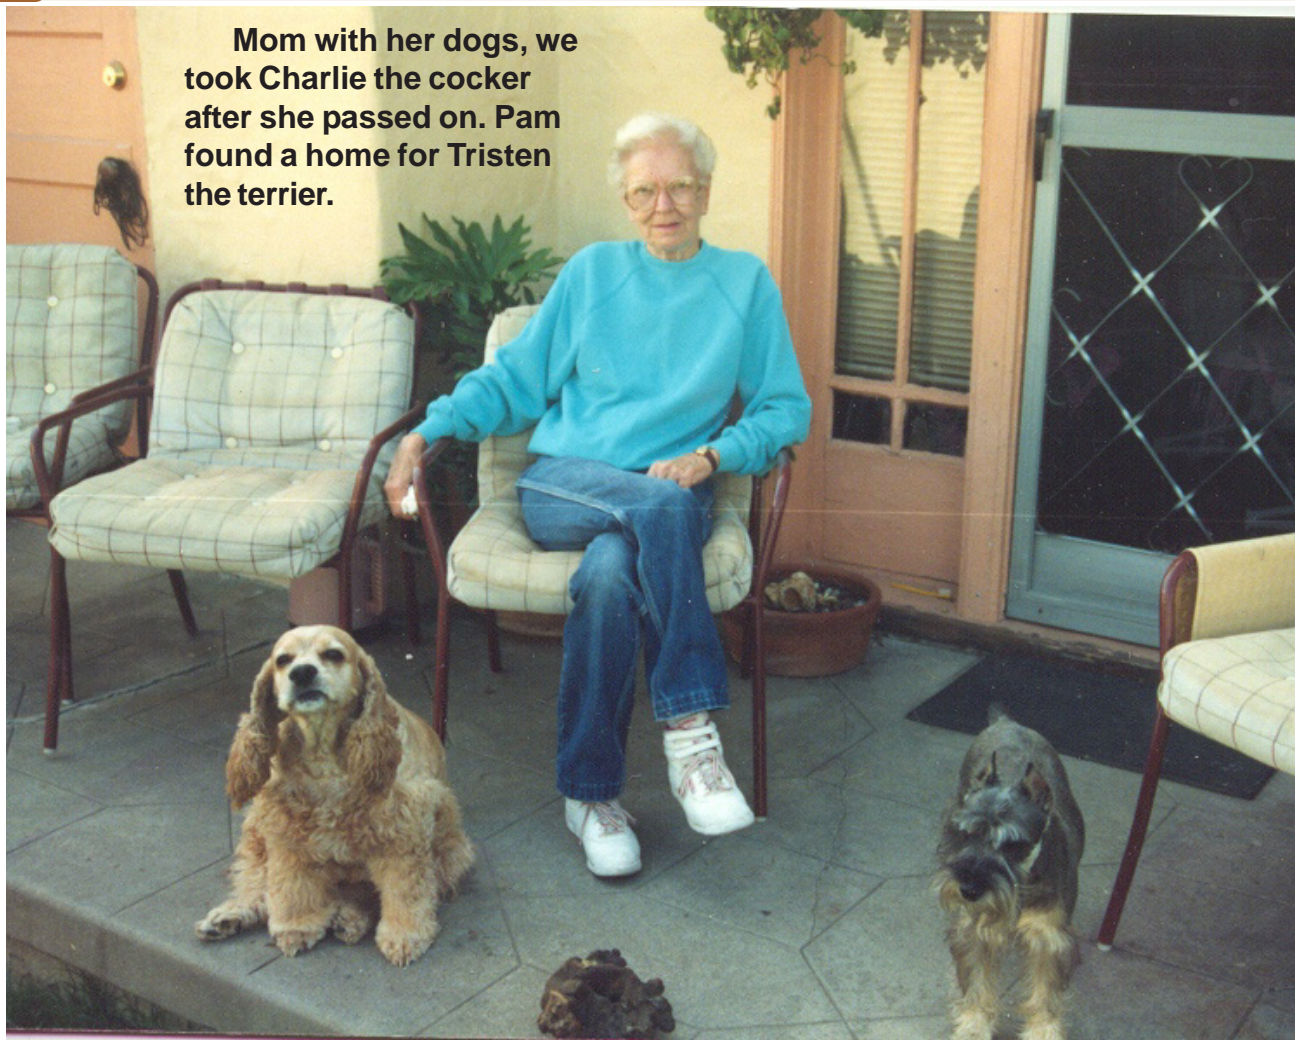

JACKSON KOLLER

JACKSON KOLLER

Mom with her dogs, we took Charlie the cocker
after she passed on. Pam found a home for Tristen
the terrier.

Mom in High School

JACKSON KOLLER

This one is either of Pam or Mom, they looked so alike at this age it is hard to tell their pictures apart.

JACKSON KOLLER

Yep, that's me with my parents.

JACKSON KOLLER

Sadly, one of the few times family gets together is funerals.

Mom's brothers and sister: Skip, Dewey, Marlys and Darryl.

JACKSON KOLLER

Pam and Sheri

JACKSON KOLLER

Pam and I.

JACKSON KOLLER

Sheri with an Uncle.

JACKSON KOLLER

Sean and I foremost carrying Mom's casket.

She had a lovely service
and a lot of friends showed
as well as family.

Brad with an Uncle.

JACKSON KOLLER

Even though Dad was cremated and scattered we added his name to the marker.

The box is Charlie's ashes that I brought down years later.

JACKSON KOLLER

We picked the spot
because of the shade
tree.

Prologue

Though I now no longer have any ancestors still living, there are numerous extended family.
